33.0 COMPLAINTS PROCEDURES

33.1 Internal-Informal Process:

- 33.1.1 The person being harassed makes an initial approach to their choice of the following people, who then provides information about whether the behavior constitutes harassment and about options for resolution.
They are:
  - a) An officer designated to take responsibility for resolving harassment complaints, (complaints officer).
  - b) A supervisor, coach or manager.
- 33.1.2 The person approached must clarify whether the complainant wants them to act as a mediator or simply wishes to talk the matter through with them.

33.1.3 If the complainant does want them to help to help resolve the complaint, then they will do this at informal level. In their management role, they must do so in an impartial manner with respect to both parties.

33.1.4 There is no written complaint at this stage.

33.2 Formal Process

33.2.1 If the matter is not resolved with the support and advice of the person initially approached, the complainant can make a formal complaint in writing about the alleged harassment to the complaints officer or Surfing WA delegated person.

33.2.2 The complaints office should attempt to resolve the complaint between the parties concerned by mediation, unless this has already been attempted without success or is clearly not the appropriate in the circumstances (for example, the complaint is too distressed to face the alleged harasser).

33.2.3 If mediation fails, or is not feasible the complaints officer must then ensure that a fair and impartial investigation is made of the allegation and that appropriate action is taken to resolve the complaint and, where necessary, to deal with the harasser.

33.2.4 The investigation is then conducted by a fairly constituted panel-committee or a suitably skilled and impartial individual from within or outside Surfing WA (likely to be the complaint officer). Natural justice is to be observed.

33.3 The typical steps for an investigation consistent with the principles of natural justice are:

- a) The complainant is interviewed and the complaint is documented in writing.
- b) The allegations are conveyed to the alleged harasser in full.
- c) The alleged harasser is given the opportunity to respond.
- d) If there is a dispute over the facts, statements from witnesses and other relevant evidence is gathered.
- e) A finding is made as to whether the complaint has substance.
- f) Report documenting the investigation process, the evidence, the finding and the recommended outcomes/s is submitted to the decision-maker (normally the person with responsibility for the anti-harassment policy).

33.3.1 Both parties are entitled to support through this process from their chosen support person/adviser.

33.3.2 If the report is endorsed by the decision-maker, the organisation then carries out the recommendation/s of the report. These may include such actions as an apology, counseling a fine, dismissal or withdrawal of coaching/official accreditation.

33.3.3 Both the complainant and the respondent have the right to appeal against the findings of the investigator/panel or against the resulting recommended action if they have any concerns about procedure, bias or fairness. Appeals are handled by an appeal body made up of members other than those who conducted original investigation.

33.3.4 The appeal body can uphold the decision of the investigation panel, reverse the decision of the investigator/panel, and/or modify any of the panel's recommendations for disciplinary action or remedial measures.

If the internal investigation, appeal and disciplinary procedures do not achieve a satisfactory outcome for the complaint, or if the complainant believes it would be impossible to get an impartial investigation within the organisation/sport, he/she may choose to approach their state association to assist with a resolution. These bodies are responsible for dealing with their organisation or sport.
