Residential Test

The eligibility rules at times require surfers to be living at a Queensland Residential Address. To meet this requirement, a person must have their principal place of residence in Queensland, and must reside at that Queensland address. Surfing Queensland shall be entitled to require evidence from surfers if there is any doubt as to whether they comply with that request. Such information may be:

- a) A completion of a statutory declaration
- b) The provision of evidence such as driver's licence, enrolment on the electoral roll, evidence of billing address for matters such as phone, electricity, bank and credit card.

Having a relative who resides in Queensland and having some clothes at that residence, does not meet the residential test. Whether a surfer has met the residential test shall be determined at the sole discretion of Surfing Queensland, and there shall be no right of appeal from that determination.

Process

In the event that a competitor or a member of the competitor's family wishes to protest against the eligibility of a fellow competitor, the following process will apply:

1. The protest shall be made in writing, and shall be delivered to the CEO of Surfing Queensland. The protest will set out the basis upon which it is claimed that the competitor is ineligible.

2. The CEO will determine whether or not any further step is required to determine whether the competitor meets the Residential Test.
3. In the event that the CEO determines that further information is required, he will write to the competitor, or if the competitor is under 18 years of age the parents of the competitor, and ask them to provide information that the competitor meets the Residential Test. The Residential Test sets out the type of information which may be requested by the CEO.
4. The competitor and/or his or her parents, shall then have fourteen (14) days or such further time as the CEO shall determine to provide information to the CEO in satisfaction of the Residential Test.
5. The CEO shall present the information provided to him to the Board of Directors and they shall then make a determination.
6. It is not the role of the CEO or the Board of Directors to personally investigate such matters, and the Board shall make their determination on the basis of the material presented to them.
7. There is no right of appeal from the determination of the Board
